Writing and Managing a Thesis/Dissertation

Stefanie Gonzalez-Lopez, Ph.D.
Tomás Rivera Center, UTSA

Friday, September 25, 2015, 2:00pm – 2:50pm, Location: BB 3.01.06

Abstract

Writing a thesis and dissertation takes discipline and dedication. This presentation will cover areas concern various graduate students have expressed and ways to overcome them such as: time management, communicating with your committee members, and overcoming writing blocks. After having attended the workshop the attendee should have a general overview of what to expect as they write their thesis/dissertation.

Bio

Stefanie earned her doctorate in Political Science from Texas Tech University as well as her master’s degree in the same discipline. She is originally from Pharr, Texas and came to San Antonio where she earned her bachelor’s degree from St. Mary’s University in Political Science and a master’s degree in Public Administration. Stefanie has experience working with students in a variety of positions that include being a visiting professor for the Political Science Department and Residence Life as a Graduate Hall Director. She has a genuine interest in student development and believes her new position as an Academic Coach is a great marriage between teaching and student development! She has completed one full marathon, seven half marathons, enjoys reading fiction novels, spending time with her husband, and volunteers monthly at the San Antonio Food Bank.